7. Public Works and Water Supply.—A total length of 12½ miles of road was tarred during the year at a cost of Rs. 89,500. No other important work was taken up during the year. In addition to Rs. 1,93,690 paid to the Water Supply Department for the maintenance of water supply inclusive of the excess water charges amounting to Rs. 52,550, the Municipal Council spent a sum of Rs. 14,192 for improving the water supply of some localities by laying sub-mains and providing fresh taps. The collection of the flat rate on water supply connections continued to be unsatisfactory during the year.

8. Public Health.—Public health in the City was generally satisfactory during the year, there being fewer cases of cholera and enteric fever than during the previous year. There was however some increase in the number of attacks and deaths from plauge and small-pox. Timely action was however taken to prevent thir spread by disinfection, inoculation and vaccination.

Anti-malaria work under the guidance of Dr. Sweet of the Rockefeller Foundation was continued during the year, including the special splenic survey of school-going boys.

9. Vaccination.—Ten thousand five hundred and twenty-eight vaccinations (of which 7,215 were successful) were performed during the year against 8,534 in the previous year.

10. Maternity and Child Welfare.—The midwives employed by the Municipality attended 1,730 labour cases against 1,594 in the previous year. A Health Exhibition was arranged by the Health Department of the City, during the Health Week organised by the Welfare Institute of the Bangalore Woollen, Cotton and Silk Mills, Ltd. The number of deaths among children under one year rose to 918 from 808 in the previous year.

11. Public Instruction.—The management of the Primary Schools in the City was placed under the School Board in accordance with the provisions of the Elementary Education Regulation. The cost incurred on account of primary schools and their supervision amounted to Rs. 91,609. The strength in these schools was 7,502 during the year against 7,351 in the previous year and there was an appreciable rise in the average daily attendance also, viz., from 5,702 to 6,078.

General.—Government observe that the activities of the Municipal Council, and therefore its expenditure, are expanding rapidly. Special efforts are necessary to secure a corresponding increase of revenues. This is a matter which requires the serious consideration of the Municipal Council.
